THE KAISER'S LETTER.

(From Our Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 10. We are being much distressed just now over naval affairs and when it is not a question of just how big our fleet is or is not there comes the "Times" yelling at the top of its voice that the Kaiser has interfered in our naval affairs by sending Lord Tweedmouth a letter. It looked a noisy affair at first but the upshot of it would seem to be that the "Times" is blamed for making such a fuss, the Kaiser is gently reproved for souding an impulsive letter to the minister of a foreign Power, and Lord Tweedmouth is laughed at for not being able to prevent the matter becoming the gossip of every West End gathering of chattering women. From one of these gossipers it would seem that Colone I a'Court Repington, the distinguished mili tary correspondent of the Times, received his information, and he rushed it in to the "Times," which, regardless of the sad experience it had with the Pigott disclosures, made haste to enlarge upon Future. it as a fearful thing. Then came the story of the letter from Mr Asquith and Lord Tweedmouth-how it was merely a friendly and private letter pointing out some errors set down to Germany by English critics, and in any case it was received after the British naval estimates were made up. A year ago this incident might have made trouble between the two countries, but things have progressed since then and the friendliness of the two peoples has constantly grown. This affair has done that friendliness good rather than harm, and the only one to suffer is the "Times" for its boisterous SOLE ACENTS for Miyao and Kishidake treatment of a private letter of a harmless kind. It may, of course be desirable that such letters should not pass from one country to another, but the idea intolerable in any case that a British 816 minister would be influenced by an outside letter to neglect the interests of his own nation, and Lord Tweedmouth happens to be a strong believer in maintaining the > it does not often happen that suchcorrespondence becomes the plaything Two of the idle chatterers in clubs and draw-Led by Lord Lansdowne, who probably knows as much of such letters as any man alive, men of note of all parties approve of the course taken in not making the contents of the letter public. As a diplomat said the other day ? When "the contents are drained off and the sediment has been reached, it will be seen that it is nothing more than a storm in a tea cup.

And that is really the state of the case.

The Academy of Sicence in St. Petersburg has despatched a well equipped expedition to the valley of Santauriakh, in Northern Siberia, to excavate the remains of the mammoth which has been discovered. The head and part of the right foreleg were exposed by the action of water, and haircovered flesh was found adhering to the bones. Arctic foxes had begun to eat the flesh, and water was poured over the exposed remains to form a protective coating of ice. These mammoths are believed to have lived about 100,000 years ago. The remains of the first one discovered were in such an excellent state of preservation that some of the remnants of flesh, after being thawed, salted, and cooked, were eaten out of curiosity by some Russian scientists.

WHAT IS WHISKY?

"Scotch" From Japan.

The "Japan Chronicle" says ;-We have been shown another remarkable attempt at fraud by imitation, whisky again having been chosen by some over-enterprising and unscrupulous Japanese as the bait for his unsuspecting fellow-countrymen. Exactly. what brand and trade-mark is imitated we are not prepared to any, but the bottle, which is in the shape of a flask and bears a label printed in murdered English, has the appearance at first sight of being the genuine article, and a Japanese who had seen a similar bottle elsewhere would be excused for believing that it was, Only Japanese, however, would venture to sample the contents of a bottle bearing such a label. It has an imitation seal of red paper bearing on one side the words "Old Whisky" and on the other "K. Y. and Son," while across it are the words "Old Hougkong Scotch Whisky." The label, which is in the familiar shape of a shield, bears the tunning Gear words "Finest Old Scotch Whisky. The Whisky of the Cunnissol Codulok-leeb Shhsold." The trademark is obviously the imitation of a British one, and the perpetrator of the fraud does not give himself away, for he only calls himself " Agent, K. Y. and Son." The label concludes with "Glasgow, England"-a geographical distinction which might in a Court of law be regarded as ample proof that in designing the label there was no intention to defraud! Another label is attached reading "Sole Importer-for Agent. K. Y. and Son." The bottle was purchased in ENT Nagoya, and for the kake of the public safety its origin ought to be traced.

ALWAYS THE POLITENESS.

A lady was not long ago watching a workman as he put up new window fixtures in her house. "Don't you think that you have placed

ING those fixtures too high?" asked she, having reference to the curtain rolls last put in The workman, a stolid German, made no reply but continued to adjust the fixtures. "Didn't you hear my question?" domanded the lady of the house. "How dare you be so rude! Whereupon the German gulped convulsively, and then replied in the gentlest of roices;

"I has my mouth full of screws, and could not spheak till I swallow some!"

Statistics show that there are nearly a million more women than men in France. There are 800,000 more bachelors than ion more widows than er of women in France age is rather more he wen. Of 9,750,000 ion are childless, and с ноventeen children. e nine or more.

THE DALAI LAMA.

An Expensive Guest.

A correspondent writing from Hsinchou near Taiyuanfu, Shansi, in a letter just received in Shanghai, states :-

The Lama and his followers began to arrive on Sunday, March 15, very early in the morning and were dribbling go out until the afternoon, and by that canvas. He left at 6 a.m. next day, and the following day he was to make which are said to take place on the first Haiuchou and neighbouring population seemed to have turned out to see the show remaining undelivered after the 28th of and the camp was suffounded by a dense crowd. The following were the "ems expended by the city on the Lama's own estimate of the numbers of the people. 500 horses to the next stage at 4,500 cash each-2,250,000 cash. Butter and milk 200,000 cash. Charcoal for fires 200,000 cash. Tea 200,000 cash.

150 carts to Yuanping 550,000 cash. 40 tons of beans and 30,000 catties of straw for the animals,

This totals up to four or five millions of cash or $4,000 to $5,000, but it was estimated that the entertainment of the Jama cost about $10,000.

From the above it will be seen that the travelling of the Lama in China is not an arrived, Consignees of Cargo are cities he passes through. As we stated No Claims will be admitted after the pontiff will leave China for his native land
